

We can tackle and solve big “hairy” problems. We know how to get our hands around the problem, get a good grasp of the problem, wrestle it to the ground, and then come up with a creative solution that squeezes to fit within the resources available.